TROUBLE IN COLMA

Half of Hillside Boulevard opposite Holy Cross Cemetery, above photo, was covered with mud washed from adjacent open areas in Colma Monday, forcing half the thoroughfare to be barricaded. At the same time, the side of a culvert under Hillside installed by San Mateo County last year, at right, began to crack as water dug erosion ditches along the side and piled sand in the bottom.

Storm Continues

Damage Grows In Heavy Rains

With only a short letup Sunday, the latest winter storm which inundated San Mateo County and the Bay Area for the past several days was expected to resume last night or today, with the weatherman predicting an 80 per cent chance of rain today.

The storm, which partially subsided Monday night and Tuesday, was expected to bring with it heavy rains, gale winds and lightning.

Small craft advisories also have been posted for boaters, with hazardous sea conditions expected today, with waves of five to nine feet high and southerly winds of 35 m.p.h. or more.

On Monday morning, winds of up to 52 miles per hour were recorded at San Francisco International Airport.

The effects of the storm have been felt throughout most of the North County, with police and fire departments reporting busy but unspectacular nights.

Power outages, broken windows, downed trees, fences and wires and leaking roofs prevailed throughout the area.

Most police and fire department spokesmen said the power outages caused several false alarms, and urged that anyone experiencing an emergency situation should not rely on the triggering of box alarms. In the event of an emergency, North County residents should utilize the alarm box, but also follow it up with a telephone call to either the police or fire department.

In Daly City, winds felled trees near the Cow Palace and the Serramonte Shopping Center. Minor damage was done to a storefront and a parked car as a result of a fallen billboard on the 6000 block of Mission Street.

In addition, about a dozen fences were damaged as a small tornado whipped through the backyard areas in the 700 block of Mayfair Avenue in Daly City. Several residents reported seeing a funnel-shaped cloud moving through their backyards. The mini-tornado resulted in much mud and debris slung on Daly City homes in that area, police said.

According to the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., about 40,000 homes in the Bay Area were without power for one time or another Sunday night and Monday morning.

In Daly City and South San Francisco, PG&E said an estimated 2,250 customers had no power from 2:30 to 3:30 a.m. Monday. However, by Monday afternoon all power was restored.

Scavengers Push for Rate Boost

Daly City's City Council started talking Monday about the question of a 27 percent garbage rate increase for the Daly City Scavenger Co.

The rate increase question followed close on a decision last week by the council to go ahead with construction of the $1 million Mussel Rock Transfer Station.

Representatives of the scavenger company appeared at a council study session Monday to urge that the proposed rate increase — from $3.45 per month per customer to $4.38 — be granted soon.

"As you are aware, it will be necessary to deliver the solid waste collected by our company to the San Francisco Salvage Transfer Station starting Feb. 16," said scavenger company president Al Sereni in a letter which appeared in council's informational packet.

The letter, dated Dec. 30, had not been brought up by the City Council before its Monday study session.

"The rate quoted by the Sanitary Fill Co. of San Francisco and the cost of transporting the garbage to San Francisco will require additional charges to the customer," Sereni's letter continued.

The letter referred to Daly City's deadline by the Regional Water Quality Control Board, which has ordered the Mussel Rock dump closed by Feb. 15 because of concern that continued dumping at the Coastside site would lead to pollution of the ocean.

Daly City has arranged with San Francisco to use its transfer station after the deadline, until the Mussel Rock Transfer Station is completed. Construction is expected to take six months.

Council Candidates

By Staff Reporter Nancy Stancill

This is the first in a series of articles on the backgrounds and ambitions of candidates for the Daly City Council.

Catherine McGrath

Catherine "Kip" McGrath said she decided to run for Daly City City Council because "Serramonte does not have anyone on the council."

Serramonte is the part of Daly City where Mrs. McGrath has lived since 1969. She's a native of San Francisco.

The 46-year-old council candidate has-

Daly City's only Filipino-born candidate for the City Council said he believes that the city should initiate a low-cost housing program.

Federal Politics Could Stall D.C. Rehab Plans

Daly City's long-awaited housing rehabilitation program could face serious delays because of federal politics, the city's consultant warned Monday.

Ward Connerly, head of Connerly and Associates, requested that the Daly City City Council work through its elected representatives to ensure the release of $60 million in funds earmarked for the Department of Housing and Urban Development's 312 Program.

Connerly, hired as the city's rehabilitation consultant several months ago, said that unless the federal administration releases the "312" funding, the main source of rehabilitation money will dry up.

He reminded the council that without the direct HUD-312 loan monies, the city's fix-up, low-cost loan program will be in trouble.

He said from the information he has gathered, $60 million was appropriated for "312" rehabilitation loans for the current year.

However, because of "some sort of tradeoff between HUD and Office of Management and the Budget, HUD won't request release of the funds."

He said that it was believed that HUD had $80 million in leftover monies for the program, but most of the money has been obligated.

As a result, he said the HUD district serving California and Nevada only has $250,000 per month to guarantee in loans.

With Daly City now generating about four loans weekly, averaging $15,000 per loan, it can use all of the district money, Connerly pointed out.

The council promised to draft a resolution by next week to the federal government, as well as contact California's congressmen.

Connerly said the rehabilitation work will continue to center on processing loans to "stack up with HUD."

Don Fleming, Daly City's director of community development, said the HUD funding problems

Engineer Bound For SoCal Post

Daly City's City Engineer David K. Macabee, who has been under pressure to resign from the post for some months, will leave Daly City to become city engineer for Oceanside Jan. 30.

Macabee had been criticized privately by members of the City Council for some time for what they termed inadequate leadership of the city's engineering functions.

City Manager David Rowe Dec. 5 placed the eight permanent employes of the city's engineering division under direct control of Rowe's office.

At the time, Rowe declined to comment on Macabee's role in the move, but stated that there were "organizational and morale questions that needed study."

The arrangement is expected to continue until the city manager completes his study of the possible consolidation of the city's departments of public works and community development.

In a statement Monday, Rowe said he will not consider hiring for the city engineer's post until after the study is completed in June.

Macabee has been a Daly City employee 10 years. Starting as associate civil engineer in 1968, he became city engineer in 1970.

Oceanside, a city of 65,000, is located in San Diego County.

Giammona Pulls Out of Contest

Veteran Daly City Councilman Anthony A. "Tony" Giammona said Monday he will bow out of the race for San Mateo County superintendent of schools, because of some confusion over his educational credentials.

Giammona announced in November that he would seek election to the county post in June.

But he said conflicting rulings about the adequacy of his credentials have caused him to decide to drop his candidacy.

"It's too much of a muddy situation," he said.

Giammona explained that when he decided to seek the office, he was told by a representative of the San Mateo County district attorney's office that the secondary school administrator's credential he holds was sufficient qualification.

But he said a later letter from the district attorney's office said he would have to have either a general administrator's credential or elementary and secondary credentials to seek the post.

Giammona said the confusion arose because the more stringent administrator's qualifications were eliminated in a revision of the state's Education Code — except in one section

D.C. Councilman Returns to Court

A motion for discovery of evidence, filed against the San Mateo County district attorney's office by Daly City Councilman William J. Schumacher, an attorney, was continued until Tuesday in North County Municipal Court.

Schumacher, 40, has been charged with a misdemeanor violation of the state's Business and Professions Code related to his representation of a Brisbane man in court a year ago.

The jury trial has been set for Feb. 1 in the Municipal Court in South San Francisco.

In a pretrial hearing Monday before Judge James Miller, Schumacher's attorney, Jack William Fahres, asked for certain "correspondence, notes and tened to add that she would represent "all of Daly City," if she is elected March 7.

Though she's never tried for public office, Mrs. McGrath said she is "very well-known in the Serramonte area and I've got lots of friends in Westlake."

Mrs. McGrath, who resides at 137 Shipley Ave., has been a real estate agent for almost a year. She works for Conragen Realty and the sale she's most pleased with lately is to her son.

Her son, daughter-in-law and two grandchildren will be moving to the Serramonte area and Mrs. McGrath already is seeing to it that they will be registered to vote in the March election.

Mrs. McGrath believes that the city's greatest problem is "Crime. Home burglaries. Assaults. Purse snatchings."

She hopes that residents will organize more neighborhoods to fight crime and promised that she would give the matter first priority, if elected.

She supports the city housing rehabilitation program, she said.

"I like keeping the old buildings up," she said. "It adds to the environment."

She said the Mussel Rock Transfer Station "is a major concern with rising costs. People are paying enough for garbage service now. I would watch it very closely, if elected."

Mrs. McGrath said she is concerned about possible noise, traffic and height problems with several condominium projects planned for the Serramonte area.

"Serramonte has the highest noise level in San Mateo County," she remarked. "If you ever observe the little children in the tot lots, you'll see how they cover their ears with their little hands when the planes cross over. They're frightened."

Mrs. McGrath said another concern is that Daly City residents spend 60 cents for each telephone call to San Mateo County offices.

"I would like toll-free numbers for access to our county offices including the SPCA at Coyote Point," she stated.

Mrs. McGrath said as a Daly City taxpayer "I have seen my tax dollars at work. Look at our growth. Because of the increase in population, we have been provided with super-efficient police and fire protection."

The candidate also had warm praise for the city's Planning Department, libraries and a "fantastic Park and Recreation Department which provides a multitude of recreational facilities not only for the young, but most important, for our senior citizens."

Mrs. McGrath said she will "reach the voters by canvassing door to door. Those I cannot reach, I will see in shopping centers.

"I am not spending one penny on this election nor am I accepting campaign contributions from any organization or private party," she said.

"When elected, I want to make those decisions with a free, clear mind without owing to any group," she concluded.

Salonga—

governments in the forms of loans, aids or subsidies," O. Edward Salonga said.

Salonga, who recently released a four-page statement on the need for low-cost housing, said as a real estate broker he is especially concerned about the housing problems he sees of minorities.

He conceded that there are problems with his proposal, such as the dearth of available land in Daly City. He said some of the land near San Bruno Mountain might be a possibility.

Salonga, a 37-year-old businessman, was the first person to take out nominating papers for the Daly City City Council race. He resides at 464 Verducci Drive and operates Salonga Realty Co. at 66 School St.

The candidate, who will compete with six others for three seats on the Daly City council, said running for public office is commonplace in his family.

"Many of our clan in the Philippines have been elected to such posts as vice-mayor and chancellor," he said with pride.

Although Salonga has never sought public office, he believes that being a native of the Philippines has major advantages in Daly City. He said about 20 percent of the Daly City population is estimated to be of Filipino descent.

He said he's been active in the San Mateo County Philippine-American Involvement League and is familiar with the problems of minorities in the area.

"I want equal opportunities for all, regardless of race and religion," he said.

He said he favors the city's federally funded housing rehabilitation program as another way to provide adequate housing.

"To take an old building and put it in good condition is good," he said.

Salonga said the city's commercial area on Mission Street should be redeveloped "to bring more income, employment and taxes to the government."

He also suggested that the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce play a role in "attracting new business to the Mission street area."

He said he believes Daly City's biggest problem is crime.

"We need more police patrol and a training center for youth to give them something to do besides wander the streets at night," he said.

Salonga, who has been in the United States since 1969 and has resided in Daly City since 1973, said he thinks his election "could bridge the gap between minorities and majorities."

He plans a "massive campaign house to house" to become more well-known before March 7.

He does not believe that speaking English with a Filipino accent will be a problem in campaigning.

"In the Philippines, everyone begins to speak English from the first grade," he said. "The government also is very much like that of the United States.

Residents Protest Condos

A developer seeking to build 44 townhouse condominiums in the north end of Pacifica was rebuffed Monday by a determined cadre of homeowners.

One by one, the homeowners pointed out enough flaws in the development plans of the Prometheus Development Co. to cause the Pacifica Planning Commission to ask for changes.

However, the commission approved a negative declaration for the condominiums, noting that they would have little or no impact on the surrounding environment.

The 44 units are proposed for a 10-acre lot on Beechview Avenue at the intersection of Hickey Boulevard. The estimated selling price per condominium is $90,000.

All of the homeowners speaking against the development were from the area surrounding the proposed site.

Ray Hilel told the commission that the developer shouldn't have computed the project's density by including hilly areas of the 10-acre lot that are too steep to support structures.

Hilel also questioned the 1.9 percent increase in traffic that the company predicted for streets surrounding the condominiums.

Stanley Varner said headlights from cars leaving the development would shine in his windows, that larger streets would be required to handle the traffic and that children would not have sufficient play areas.

"The more I hear about it, the more I wonder what advantages this development is going to bring to the Fairmont area . . . If they sell the condominiums for $90,000 each, I hope (that) doesn't get down to the county assessor's office to increase my taxes in accordance with the rich area in which I live," Varner said. There was loud applause from approximately 15 people.

John Straight said he would fear for the safety of his 3-year-old son if traffic increased. He declared that the flat tarpaper roofs proposed for the condominiums would be an eyesore.

Interference with a view of the ocean was mentioned by several homeowners. Jerry Stephens said he had complained to a developer's representative and that the representative had replied, "What's the difference? It's foggy up here all the time anyway."

The fog interfered with a demonstration that the Prometheus Development Co. staged for homeowners. They floated balloons as high as the condominiums would be built, but photos taken of the balloons showed the view shrouded in fog.

A new homeowner in the area, Donald Sims, complained that his real estate agent had told him no new projects were planned for there. Sims said the condominiums would make his property harder to sell.

Planning Commission Chairman Lee Forster said the owner of the property had been trying to sell it for at least 10 years.

Representing the developer, Glenn Kwan said his company had worked closely with city staff and had met with the Fairmont Homeowners Association and the Hillside Review Board to discuss the project.

Another Prometheus representative, Robert Stevens, argued that plans previously submitted to the city for the site were of higher density.

"The only way to retain the view as the neighbors would like would be not to build anything at all," Stevens said.

Garbage—

take the garbage to San Francisco and have it processed there for short-term dumping at a Mountain View facility.

He said a 25 percent or 86-cent hike in the monthly rate, plus another 7 cents or 2 percent franchise fee would be needed to recoup costs.

"This item has been with you for quite some time," Dwyer said. "I would hope you would take action immediately."

However, Harold Calder, president of the Crocker Neighborhood Association and a chief garbage operations critic, pointed out that the council also held recent letters from three neighborhood associations.

The letters, from the Hillside Homeowners Improvement Club and Original Daly City Protective Association as well as the Crocker group, all called for the council to appoint a citizens advisory committee to study garbage rate increase requests.

Calder said a citizens committee could help to settle the questions he said involve the company's "profits and costs."

He also commented that such a committee could "help to dispel the cynicism that surrounds the garbage company's operations in Daly City.

Councilman William Schumacher said he favored a citizens advisory committee to "get some public confidence back in the whole garbage situation."

However, Councilman McRobert Stewart said a homeowners' group is unnecessary to determine the San Francisco contract costs, although it could be useful "farther down the line."

Councilman Anthony Giammona said the cost of contracting with San Francisco will be easy to determine.

City Manager David Rowe said he would request from Ernst and Ernst, the city's consultant in garbage operations, an estimate of how long it would take to evaluate the scavenger company's need for a rate increase.

At issue, he said, would be the company's estimate of $1.40 per ton as the cost of transporting the garbage to the San Francisco facility.

The council is expected to discuss the matter further at its regular session at 8 p.m. next Monday.

Federal—

may "slow down construction."

He said the rehabilitation program, started in November amid criticism that the city had delayed it almost a year, is "going very well now."

Fleming said the city's first rehabilitation loan was recorded last week in San Mateo County Superior Court. He said construction has begun on $3,000 in Housing Code improvements to the 112 San Diego Ave. residence of Clarence and Mabel O'Banion.

Prior to that, the only project under way was an "emergency cleanup" of a residence where there was illness.

Fleming also said the city has received construction bids for three homes to be started next week, with bids due for three other residences' improvements.

In addition, the city's Rehabilitation Loan Committee has approved 25 other loan applications, with another 26 projects still to be evaluated.

Besides HUD-312 direct loans, the city has $140,000 remaining in Housing and Community Development Act funding for rehabilitation, which Fleming warned "won't go far."

In other business at the City Council's study session, the council heard a report by Charles Vincent, city director of recreation, parks and maintenance, on Lincoln Park vandalism.

Vincent said the city's Park and Recreation Commission cannot recommend that the park be fenced in and locked at dusk, as resident Knud Knudsen suggested.

Instead, Vincent recommended that the council consider a park ordinance that would prohibit use of the city parks after 10 p.m.

He said such a law would aid the Daly City police in keeping order there. He said Lincoln Park's vandalism consists of damage to lights and graffiti, problems common to all city parks.

Residents of the Old Daly City area around the park said they would agree to see how such a solution would help the park problems.

According to Schumacher, who is a former deputy district attorney, the information is necessary to the defense, which is based on "discriminatory prosecution."

Schumacher has stated that he believes District Attorney Keith Sorenson is purposely attempting to ruin his career.

Sorensen has denied Schumacher's charge that a representative of the district attorney's office once quizzed Schumacher as to any intention he might have to seek the district attorney's post.

A secondary school administrator's credential covers grades 7-12, while an elementary credential covers the earlier grades and a general credential qualifies an educator to become superintendent for grades K-14.

Since a state superintendent is not required to have any credentials, Giammona said he considered taking the matter to the state for a legal opinion, but decided against it.

He said it would cause only confusion in his campaign.

Giammona, 50, is a Westmoor High School coach and physical education teacher.

School Secretaries Seek Salary Equity

A proposal made Thursday would boost the pay of secretaries in the Laguna Salada Union School District to the same rate as school custodians are paid.

The district's Classified Personnel Commission heard a report from Personnel Administrator Lucille Foster in which she recommended a 5 percent increase in salaries paid to clerical workers and cafeteria employees.

Dr. Foster further advised raising the pay for cafeteria manager and school secretaries by 7½ percent.

She said all of these positions, traditionally held by women, do not reflect the experience required for them.

Secretaries in the district brought up the pay issue in December when they asked the commission to study the matter.

Dr. Foster said secretaries had been protesting the inequality of their pay for the last 10 years.

Until recently, however, she said the district argued that it pays salaries in line with the median salaries paid to other secretaries in the county.

The board asked that the topic not be discussed while contract negotiations were in progress.

Negotiations were completed in November.

Dr. Foster said the commission postponed action on her recommendations until Jan. 30 to allow other employees in different classifications to review them.

Guest speaker for the evening will be the Rev. Lawrence Purcell, director of the Catholic Workers' House, Redwood City.

Members of the Y.L.I. District 14 are Angela Institute, No. 90, San Bruno; Notre Dame Institute, No. 124, Redwood City; Our Lady of the Pillar, No. 130, Half Moon Bay and St. Theresa Institute, No. 227, South San Francisco.

JESD, Teachers Agree

After more than two years of talks, negotiators for the Jefferson Elementary School District and its teachers agreed Thursday night to a contract for the 1977-78 and 1978-79 school years.

The contract now must go before the district's 400 teachers for ratification. That action is expected within the next two weeks.

"We're receiving good feedback from the teachers," District Superintendent Pete Hansen said Friday. "Ratification looks good at this point."

Agreement on the two-year pact occurred at a somewhat historic meeting Thursday night. It was the first time in the Daly City-Colma elementary school district's history that negotiations were held in an open session, attended by the public.

"The public session certainly accelerated finalization," said board president Alvin Schwarzbach. "Everybody came prepared to discuss their bottom line and what they felt was equitable. And, undoubtedly, everyone had thoroughly completed their homework before the session."

Negotiators ironed out their differences for nearly five hours Thursday night, breaking up just after midnight.

Teachers, represented by the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association, worked the 1976-77 school year without a contract.

Now, a contract for that work year is a moot point, and negotiators continued on the resolve differences for this school year and next.

"The board feels very comfortable with the contract proposal," Schwarzbach said. "We're in a position to say yes, we'll ratify it."

The board president said he believes the contract "pretty well resolves the areas of concern and conflict that have existed between the district and its employees. Considering their negotiator found it acceptable, we consider it a fair settlement."

Attorney Ned Fine, negotiator for the district, said Friday the contract was resolved because of several factors.

Youths Attend Conclave

Some 130 San Mateo County youngsters now know more about how state government works.

They are just back from the 6th annual San Luis Conference of the YMCA Youth and Government Program. Nearly 800 youngsters were acting out their roles in government in the statewide training and officer election conference — a preliminary to the 30th Model Legislature in Sacramento where they will be giving the real legislature a notion of student opinion on vital issues.

Jim Hayashi, who is also San Mateo High student president, presided over the session in which the Chief Justice was elected. Other San Mateo High students attending were Ed Bik, Mary W. Chowning, Dave Feinberg, Laurie Melvin, Michael Servarian, Tony Sharp, Lisa Tarleton and Linda Tappe. Other students were Peggy Avigliano, Mills; Patty Kastler, Aragon; Seth Skootsky, Westmoor; and Lori Phillips, Capuchino.

Also elected were government, lieutenant governor and speaker of the assembly. The local delegates later helped organize into 16 legislative committees covering problems in beverage control, education, environment and energy, labor, health and welfare, transportation and individual rights.

Local members traveled with advisers Denise Bagby of San Mateo and Maurice Batista of Daly City. They were nearly flooded out on the final day when a drenching storm burst as they were cleaning out the "hutments" at the National Guard's Camp San Luis.

Benefits of Proposed District Contract Outlined

Here are the highlights of the proposed contract between the Jefferson Elementary School District and its teachers:

- A 5 percent, one-time only non-salary schedule adjustment this year, retroactive to the start of the 1977-78 school year. A 1978-79 10 percent salary adjustment, and the provision for step and column advances, amount to a 2 percent hike.
- A 40-hour work week ceiling, including breaks and lunch period.
- Continuation of the district's current contribution for health and welfare. The district's medical contribution is $113.53 per month per employee; dental is $29.59 per month per employee.
- Advisory, rather than binding arbitration.
- Withdrawal of unfair labor practices against the district by the teachers concerns the work week.

TOT LOT DEDICATION

The City of Daly City formally dedicated its new Alta Loma Tot Lot at 356 Alta Loma Ave. Jan. 7, with Mayor Al Teglia wielding the scissors to cut the ceremonial ribbon, with plenty of assistance. Adults standing left to right were Councilman Victor Kyriakis, Planning Commissioner Ed O Donnell, Teglia, Councilman William Schumacher, Mrs. Marie Lorretta, Frank Lorretta and Recreation Commissioner Al Kane.

Camino Pupils Gain A Computer

To correct disadvantages that El Camino High School students have discoved when enterting college, trustees of the South San Francisco Unified School District Thursday night voted to purchase a computer system for use by students at the school.

The board approved $5,247 for a computer from Computadata Processing Service, Daly City, on a 3-1 vote, with Trustee John Dillon opposed. Trustee Kenneth Austin was absent.

"We've found that many university and college prep students have found themselves disadvantaged because other students are ahead of them in computer technology," said Thomas Gaffney, assistant superintendent for instruction.

"Our students really need to have instruction in a hands-on computer," he added.

"We do not like our students to find themselves at a disadvantage. Were it not a good instructional tool, we wouldn't recommend it to the board."

Gaffney said the computer will be used as a math tool, not as a training device for technicians or computer programmers. The $5,000 price tag is expensive, he conceded, "but it will pay off in a lot more than the dollar figure."

El Camino High math instructor Dallas Smulin explained that many high school students in other districts have taken computer introduction courses. Smullin said it has been difficult for him to recognize the importance of computers, but, "The importance is there."

The computer purchased for El Camino, he said, is certainly not the most sophisticated on the market. In fact, many districts are using them to fill in "as a middle gap for their other computers," he added.

Initially the computer will be used by students in the math department, helping them work out problems in calculus, trigonmetry, geometry and graphing. Later it will be used in science and social studies classes as a data assembling device.

Trustee Dillon argued that $300 to $400 calculators could serve much the same purpose as a $5,000 computer.

"We're not here to teach the students how to operate computers. You don't have computer classes. You teach math," he said.

Dillon said he wouldn't suport purchase of either a computer or calculators.

Trustees agreed to donate $447 to support the communications portion of the San Mateo County Congress of Elected Officials budget. The $447 represents 50 cents for each full-time employee in th district. Thecounty congress is attempting to unite government agencies to eliminate duplication of services and expenditures.

The board agreed to provide lunches to the Brisbane School District, at a cost of 75 cents per lunch.

Trustees indicated they will participate in a lawsuit challenging a federal unemployment compensation law as it applies to teachers. According to Joseph Smith, associate superintendent, "We're challenging this as a matter of money."

A Meeting on Arbitration

Teachers in the Laguna Salada Union School District met Thursday with district officials to try to choose an arbitrator who will resolve their dispute over a 3.4 percent pay boost the teachers received this fall.

The teachers, who belong to the Laguna Salada Educational Association, formally notified the district this week that they have decided to submit the disagreement to binding arbitration.

Both parties have 10 days in which to choose an arbitrator on whom they both agree. If necessary, they will ask for names for the State Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Under binding arbitration, they must accept the decision of the arbitrator after presenting both sides of the issue.

Teachers argue that they could have received a much larger pay raise than the 3.4 percent increase, according to a reopener clause in the current contract.

That clause states that 60 percent of any new income resulting from action of the 1977 California Legislature is to be used to increase salaries.

Dr. Lucille Foster, representing the district, said no higher increase is possible amd that the contract forbids reopening salary negotiations. She noted that all money available was considered when the board voted for the 3.4 percent raise.

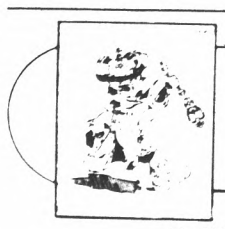
While others are still getting their "beauty rest," Tony is selecting fresh fish and produce for the day's business at his VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant, the "Fisherman's Wharf of the Peninsula" . . . Off to a delayed start, the winter season of harness racing at BAY MEADOWS is now in full swing and it will continue through Saturday, Feb. 18. A 1976 graduate of South City High School, Rice joined the Navy in September 1976.



The Regent

By JULIE SMITH
Commissioner of Publicity

Last week Mr. Dubois, principal, called each class level to a meeting. Each class met with him during one period of the day. The purpose of this meeting was to explain to the students Serramonte's student grievance procedure, which is as follows:

Step One: Go to your counselor, explain the problem, and ask for advice and help. Your counselor will try to resolve the issue problem amiably.

Step Two: If unable to resolve the problem, the counselor will take the student to Mr. Campbell or Mr. McClanahan or Mrs. Cahill who will hear all sides for the issue, discuss alternative solutions and render a decision.

Step Three: If the student does not agree with decision rendered by Mr. McClanahan, Mr. Campbell, or Mrs. Cahill, the student may appeal to the principal, who will agree with the decision, overturn the decision or provide another alternative.

Step Four: If the student does not agree with principal, he/she may appeal to the Director of Pupil Personnel Services in the district office, Mr. Panagoulias, who will review the entire case and uphold or overturn the decision made by the principal or provide another alternative.

Step Five: If the student does not agree with the district office decision, he/she may ask for a final review of the case by the Board of Trustees, who will make the final determination.

THE GIRLS Varsity Basketball team is the best seen in several years. Although in the past years the girls have had a hard time placing in the league, this year's team proves to be a big surprise to everyone. With the combining talents of centers Patrice Callagy and Patty LaValle, forwards Sheila Calabro, Yolanda Newton, Pam Paraquet and Pam Sneed; and guards Meri VeaVea, Sue Logia, Valerie Magee and Brenda Spears, the team is definitely a threat.

The girls have worked long and hard. Their determination will prove to be a big asset on the court. Their destination is the playoffs. Their ultimate goal is the championship.

Open University Program Summed

More than 3,000 classroom doors will be open this spring to the local community through San Francisco State's Open University. This program, offering courses through some 70 departments, enables people to enroll for credit in most regular university classes on a space-available basis.

Open University students don't have to apply for admission or wait in long registration lines. They may take classes on campus and experience the academic life of a major university without a lot of red tape. Open University students who decide later to enroll in the regular university can apply up to 24 units they've earned through the program to a degree.

Open University students register through the Division of Continuing Education and pay Extension fees, usually $35 a unit. Semester-long classes begin Jan. 23, although registration is possible in many classes after that.

A BIG SHOW COMING UP AT WESTMOOR

A musical show called "Jazz '78" will be put on by the Westmoor High School Jazz Band at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 24 in the school Little Theater. That's why the musicians here, left to right, Russell Niebolt, Christina Loeffler and Dean Palmer, are busy practicing. The Jazz Band, which has about 21 musicians, wants to raise money for a trip to Reno, Nev., in March to participate in a jazz festival there. On the program is music by Stevie Wonder and Henry Mancini, themes of the television shows "Police Woman" and "Kojak" and the film "Rocky." The girls of the Swing Choir will do several jazz and pop numbers. This concert is the latest of several efforts to raise money for the school Music Department. Parents have formed a Band Boosters Club to help and will have a fund-raising garage sale Saturday and Sunday in the school cafeteria.

Ram-blings

By STEVE KAUFMAN

Welcome back! I hope everyone had a very nice holiday. My best wishes for a happy and healthy New Year.

Westmoor's annual canned food and clothes drive was a total success. Congratulations to the Junior class who swept everything. They won the clothes drive, canned food drive and the joint canned food drive between Westmoor and Jeff. The official figures are:

Clothes Drive, Juniors, 1892 pounds, Sophomores, 540, Freshmen, 380, Seniors, 365.

Canned Food Drive, Juniors, 330 cans, Sophomores, 264, Seniors, 163, Freshmen, 73.

Between Westmoor and Jeff, they raised 788 cans. Thanks to everybody who helped make this the best drive I've ever seen.

The Junior won the Christmas Rally. Remember the cheerleaders were supposed to get a pie in the face? Well, the pie-throwers had a slight change of plan and Vickki Johnson, the rally commissioner, was the lucky recipient of all four pies. With all the whip cream they used; she had a white Christmas!

Among the performers in that rally were the Freshmen drill team, cheerleaders, pompon girls and members of the classes who put on a skit. It was one of the most spirited all year.

Congratulations to the BSU. They put on a very good Winter Ball. The band, New Genesis, did an excellent job and a good time was had by all.

Westmoor's Service Club recently won a special award for its participation in last year's Special Olympics. Those students who helped were Mary Ellen Gonzales, Ana Grande, Cindy Chandler, Preet Birak, Ligia Macay, Cindy Gonzales, Bebre Baker, Adele Gio, Chria Rigas, Sue Canavan, Nancy Roscelli, Cheryl Nunes, and Bonnie McMillan. Thank you for helping these very special kids.

This year's class presidents are: Seniors, Kiki Verveniotis; Juniors, Marisa Matteucci, Sophomores, Mike Montes; and Freshmen, Donald Laviane.

The girls locker room recently acquired a new item — hair dryers. Used primarily by girls who have swimming, they were installed Dec. 1 and are controlled by a switch in the coach's office. These are definitely a very handy item.

It's time once again for student body elections. President, vice-president, secretary and treasurer and all the various commissioners will be elected to serve the next term. One must be a junior or senior to be eligible to run. I'll announce the winners in this column.

A group of Westmoor students are going to Washington, D.C. during the Easter Break March 19-25. It's all part of the Close-Up program that Westmoor has participated in each year. Students sit in the houses of Congress and participate in discussions about foreign problems. Students will be able to meet many important international officials.

George Simon, advisor for the trip, says there will be some kind of fund-raising activity that will help finance the cost of the trip. Anyone interested should contact Simon at the school.

The Junior class had it easy last week in its English classes. The movie "Cool Hand Luke" was shown to all the classes as part of the normal curriculum. The movie generated a lot of positive reaction and most everyone seemed to enjoy it.

Sports — Sportswise, Westmoor is doing extremely well. In swimming, the girls team swept six gold medals at the NPL Finals. Among the outstanding swimmers were Terry Kraemer, Bonnie McMillan, Linda Rogers and Monica Theis. The team finished the season with an impressive 4-2 record.

The frosh-soph football team placed second in the standings this season, falling short of the title by just one heartbreaking point. They suffered a close loss to Serramonte, 35-34. Coach Passera is confident that some of his starting players will definitely be an asset to next year's varsity team. Among those are Paul Sangervasi, Phil Rodriguez, John Sheilds and Mike O'Brien.

Westmoor's girls volleyball team finished the season with an impressive 10-4 record, placing second in the standings. They fell short of first place when fatigue overcame them, playing nine straight games in two days. South San Francisco came up the victor. Among the Westmoor all-leaguers were Gigi Hawkins, Sharon Flynn, Sue Koo and Maria Marti.

In tennis, Westmoor finished third as the Rams lost a few key matches. Coach Kolbman remains confident that Westmoor will give the league more competition next year.

One of the team's greatest assets are the Lamsan twins, Ruth and Esther. Together they won the NPL girls doubles title this year, finishing the season undefeated, 16-0. They went on to CCS to represent Westmoor and placed third. These two girls are to be congratulated for their superb efforts.

Finally, Westmoor's C Basketball team captured its fourth straight division title. Led by all-leaguers Clark Bloom, Tony Cooper and Mitch Brewer, the C's boasted an impressive 11-1 season record. Led by Coach Tony Giammona, the C's lost only one game all season. Congratulations, and next year, let's make it five straight!

STORY-TELLER IN COLMA

Colma Elementary School commemorated the birthday of the late Dr. Martin Luther King at a general assembly last Friday with students reading their own compositions. The youngsters also broke up into small groups to hear Bill Dutrieuille, left, a San Mateo County mental health consultant, tell stories about Africa's people and cultures. Listening were, clockwise, Pamela Alegre, Andrea Morrow, Marnie Travers and Mary Rizzado.

Browning Tells Of Hearst Case

James Browning

There's no reason to believe F. Lee Bailey chose his own losing defense strategy in defending newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, attorney James Browning said in San Mateo Thursday night.

Browning said his opponent for 10 weeks in a federal courtroom in San Francisco didn't necessarily plan his own case.

"I don't know who picked that defense," Browning said. "But don't any of us assume for one minute it was Lee Bailey."

"It was my opinion he tried very hard to win it," Patty Hearst's prosecutor said.

"I think he may have had a defense that just didn't square with the evidence," he said.

Browning spoke to the St. Bartholomew's Church Men's Club. It was his first local talk since he left the U.S. District Attorney's office in San Francisco and joined the Redwood City lawfirm of Ropers, Majeski, Kohn, Bentley and Wagner.

The Foster City resident is really beginning to warm up his campaign for California attorney general in the June election.

Browning said he and Bailey discussed the defense strategy at their first face-to-face meeting in 1975.

Bailey told him at that time he was planning a "physical duress" case based on the idea "They made me do it." Her kidnappers forced her to participate in the bank robbery of which she was later convicted, he told Browning.

But Bailey hadn't yet seen the videotapes of that bank robbery, Browning said. In those, he contended, the daughter of newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst was clearly not under pressure, he argued.

Bailey went to see the films and returned, Browning related. He was still planning to use that defense.

Browning said he is expecting the U.S. Supreme Court to act on Miss Hearst's appeal within three months. He said the trial cost the federal government and U.S. taxpayers $500,000 — half to sequester the jury for 10 weeks and half to supply Browning with topnotch psychiatrists for courtroom testimony.

That amount might have been out of hand if it weren't for the fact that the defendant was able to hire the highest priced experts in the United States for her defense, Browning contended.

"Allowing a wealthy, powerful defendant to get away with a not wealthy, less powerful government prosecution would be wrong," he said.

If the U.S. Supreme Court refuses to rule on her petition — as Browning expects will occur — Miss Hearst will be eligible for parole in less than a year or the judge trial court judge can modify her sentence, Browning said.

Browning, a Republican, spent 10 minutes outlining his interests in the attorney general's position now held by Evelle Younger. He said he believes that:

• "The rights of the defendant are pretty well protected under our system. It's time to start worrying about the victim and the witness."

Although resources for both victim and witness include compensation possibilities, no one is required to tell either party, he said.

• ". . . the grand jury is an institution worthy of saving." Little-publicized proposals before Congress would eliminate this judicial body composed of citizens, he said.

• More money should be spent to build new jails and prisons. The lack of space to house criminals is one reason judges let a lot of criminals loose, he said. Twelve percent of the nation's prisons are more than 100 years old, he noted.

Environmental Plan Warning

San Mateo Councilman John Murray Thursday told a directors meeting of the Concerned Citizens Coalition of San Mateo County, in Millbrae that local home rule may be dying and pointed to the Association of Bay Area Governments Environmental Management Plan as its deathbed.

"They feel the environment is more important than those who live in it," Murray said of those who have pushed such plans. The three-time San Mateo mayor who was an original ABAG delegate himself said that a "bureaucracy, not elected by anybody is trying to say what we must do."

He told the coalition leaders meeting at the El Rancho restaurant that the program would cost not billions but trillions of dollars and that it is filled with bureaucratic gobbledygook.

Recalling his youth in the painting business, when he dipped a hand on occasion into white lead oil paint, Murray said that the new regulations would ban all but water paint mixing "because turpentine might get into the air."

He noted that even commuting would be affected as the bureaucracy would tell people where there was land available to live.

"Do we want all of our lives to be conducted by a triangle in Washington, D.C.?" he asked.

Nevertheless, Murray said, he predicted the plan would be adopted by ABAG. Only San Mateo County, he said, is well-informed enough that representatives may vote against it.

He described the plan itself as 556 pages long, in which a "mountain has labored and produced a mess of mice."

"It is almost impossible to realize how a bureaucracy is able to confuse an elected official either by convoluted language or by putting forward such a mass of unrelated information that you cannot absorb it," Murray said.

"That is what has happened to the Environmental Management Plan."

Recalling his three years with the ABAG executive committee in its early days, Murray said ABAG was started by men like former San Mateo County Supervisor T. Louis Chess who put together a group of cities seeking to "better all their interests."

Much of the blame for its evolution into an overseeing, non-elected bureaucratic area agency, he said, can be laid on San Francisco, which has constantly proposed regional government for years.

"They were pushing mass transit and a single port long before the environment became our god," Murray said.

"San Francisco, where I was born, is a charming, delightful city in the world — but it's a dump.

"It remains the premier city in Northern California, but it has not been able to exercise the leadership it should." He pointed out that recently, when Jimmy Carter was introduced to a group of area mayors, the mayor of San Francisco "stood in a corner."

TOTAL MARKET COVERAGE

THE TIMES & THE SOUTH POST

The most effective, efficient means of delivering your advertising message to your customers and potential customers in the heart of San Mateo County.

This is how it works: As an advertiser you get the full 45,000 circulation of The Times or, in the case of preprinted advertising sections, The Times' coverage you select, plus 25,000 circulation of The South Post delivered to non-subscribers of The Times in San Mateo, Foster City, Belmont, San Carlos and Redwood Shores. A total of 51,000 unduplicated circulation in the Total Market Coverage Area (82% penetration of the 61,775 households) and 20,000 circulation of The Times outside the Total Market Coverage Area.

ADVERTISER BENEFITS

Amphlett Printing Company's new TMC plan provides unduplicated high household penetration (82% initially, to be increased as plan expands) that combines the area's most widely read and most frequently used for shopping daily newspaper with a well read, established and accepted weekly newspaper that offers unduplicated household coverage.

This TMC plan offers more than just distribution, it offers proven readership. The Times and The Post have developed and maintained readership by producing the best combination of an excellent editorial product and more local advertising (the second highest read feature of newspapers) than any other newspaper or newspaper combination available in San Mateo County.

NOTE: The Post's unduplicating computerized distribution system began November 16, and will be expanded until all routes in the Total Market Coverage Area have been revised. Circlation of The Post, when the TMC plan is completed, is projected to be between 25,000 and 30,000, which will provide between 80%-90% TMC household penetration.

Plans are now being made to expand the TMC area into Burlingame. The non-duplicating computerized distribution system will be used for delivery of the Recorder-Progress to non-subscribers of The Times.

How to Lessen Trauma

After trustees of the Millbrae School District battled over which schools to close Thursday, they learned the district is going after $130,000 in grant money to lessen the trauma of closing schools.

Superintendent Edward Muehlhausen said he learned about the grant program over the Christmas break. He asked the county Office of Education if there was any way to obtain help during its school-closing crisis, he said.

Assistant Superintendent Rufus Clapp said the federal program could bring the district $50,000, $100,000 or even $130,000.

It is designed to help motivate staff, children and parents as they adjust to new surroundings and people.

A parent in the audience erupted in anger.

"This is the most asinine thing I've ever heard of. If we have that kind of money or the federal government does, then why are we closing schools?" demanded Astra Johnson.

"They take our money and say, 'If you spend the time and write up a nice proposal, we might give you some of it back'," she said.

Mrs. Johnson asked Muehlhausen and Clapp to protest to the state Department of Education.

Muehlhausen replied that the district has been writing and telephoning the people who control tax money as long as he's been with the district.

In fact, he said, "We had one of the representatives from Senator (John) Foran's office in our office for two hours yesterday, addressing him about some of the misuses of public dollars."

In all the years he's been fighting for reform, Muehlhausen said, the district has been "marginally successful."

He noted that the district's only alternatives are to watch other districts reap the funds made available for grant programs or to compete with them for the money.

That didn't completely satisfy Mrs. Johnson.

"My blood is boiling," she said.

Lucero Charge Dropped

A sodomy charge against Vietnam veteran Daniel Lucero was dismissed Thursday by Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo after the prosecutor said he had insufficient evidence.

Lucero, 24, waged a successful court battle four years ago to win custody of his illegitimate son, then engaged in a string of criminal violations.

The sodomy charge claimed that Lucero sexually assaulted an inmate at the main jail in Redwood City last Oct. 25. Sheriff's Capt. Grant Davis called off Lucero's scheduled jail wedding for Oct. 27 because of the charge.

Deputy District Attorney Phil Cronin said the alleged victim refused to cooperate. Evidence also surfaced which cast doubts on portions of his initial story, Cronin said.

Lucero was to be transferred today to Duell Institute in Tracy to finish a term for felony convictions.

He was in the San Mateo County Jail last October to face charges of auto theft.

Lucero's child custody case was taken all the way to the state Supreme Court by a Belmont couple who had been the boy's foster parents. Their battle failed. The boy now lives with Lucero's mother.

School Closing Plan

Crocker, Pershing and Abraham Lincoln schools would be closed and Crocker Intermediate School changed to a middle school under a plan presented to the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees Wednesday night by Superintendent Pete Hansen.

The district will have 80 empty classrooms by next September, Hansen reported, because of declining enrollment and escalating costs resulting in budget restrictions.

Pershing and Crocker students would be transferred to George Washington School next September and those now at Abraham Lincoln would be divided between Westlake and Christopher Columbus schools, the former if they reside in Westlake Estates, north of John Daly Boulevard or in the 200 block of Lake Merced Boulevard.

Washington would lose its sixth-grade class to Colma Intermediate and be left with kindergarten through fifth-grade students.

Hansen also recommended some boundary changes to balance several school populations. They include:

• Moving 84 Colma Elementary School students residing on Bismarck, Price, First Avenue (the 0-99 block), East Moltke, Garibaldi, Second Avenue (0-99), East Cavour, Castle and Thiers Street (0-99) to Kennedy.

• Moving 33 students now residing in the Colma Elementary attendance area from Kennedy, where they now go, to Colma.

• Moving 11 Olympia School students residing on Bepler and Vendome and 180 in the Palisades area to Westlake School.

Hansen said closing the three smaller schools — Crocker, Pershing and Abraham Lincoln — would "increase the educational opportunities by providing more programs and more flexibility of instructional groups at each grade level."

CHRISTEL FLUETER
Sharing her enthusiasm

'Basic Tourism' Puts Travel In Right Place

By NANCY STANCILL

Christel Flueter believes that too many people have felt cheated on their European trips.

Miss Flueter, a Terra Nova High School teacher of German and a native of Germany, decided to do something about it.

Miss Flueter and Julia Maionchi, a teacher of Italian in Jefferson Union High School District's adult school, just began teaching an eight-week class for adults entitled "Basic Tourism."

Sponsored by the JUHSD, the course had its first meeting Monday night at Westmoor High School. Miss Flueter said interested adults can sign up by contacting the district or by coming to the second class meeting next Monday.

Miss Flueter, who has resided in the United States 12 years, has been concerned about people who spend a lot of money to see Europe but who have not been prepared to deal with language barriers and other travel problems.

So she and Mrs. Maionchi will stress in the course "how to use the telephone, read timetables, convert currency and clothing sizes and order food and wine."

The teachers will review the basic conversational skills tourists need in Germany and Italy, particularly.

And after that?

Why, a European tour this summer, of course.

Miss Flueter and Mrs. Maionchi will offer a second, separate course which will consist of a four-week package tour for adults.

Details of the trip have not been worked out yet, but she and Mrs. Maionchi plan to take a group of their adult students to Italy, Austria, Switzerland and West Germany.

She hopes to draw the tour participants from the tourism class which just started. In addition, the two teachers will repeat the tourism course in the late spring quarter.

However, she stressed that one doesn't have to plan to take the tour to sign up for the tourism class — it just makes it more fun.

The number of participants on the tour, tentatively set for late June, will determine the cost.

Miss Flueter has taught at Terra Nova five years. She previously went to Europe every other year, but goes less often since her father died.

But she's eager to share her enthusiasm with other adults.

"People always ask a language teacher, 'Why don't you take us to the country?' Well, I am," she said.

Continuing our saga of what's wrong with the Warriors, can you name the members on the current team who are left over from the 1974-75 champs and then point out how many of them have improved since then or even stayed as effective as they were that year?

There are only five of them left, since Charley Johnson's recent departure: Rick Barry, Phil Smith, Clifford Ray, Derrek Dickey and Charles Dudley.

WE ALL know how Johnson did this year in comparison with '75. Now think about the rest of them. Only Smith, who is playing almost three times as much as he did then, when he was a reserve in his rookie season, can be said to be improved. Possibly Ray is at about thesame level, although, because he is a team player and because the team isn't as good this year, he tends to seem to be not as effective as he was then. Obviously, the biggest drop-off has been in the play of Barry, even though he's still good.

Also obvious, as pointed out last week, no one's taken the place of Jamaal Wilkes or backcourt leader Butch Beard, or, more subtly, Jeff Mullins, the pure shooter who could come off the bench that season, an intelligent player who seldom made mistakes, the steady vet who could settle things down when Barry wasn't available.

Barry, incidentally and surprisingly, has the highest single game career rebound record of any man on the current roster — 25.

And perhaps what is really MOST wrong with the Warriors this year is reflected in the fact that before this season began, they had the NBA's best road record over the previous two-year period, a 40-42 slate.

ESOTERIC STATS: If you like esoteric stats, try these. Since the 24-second clock came into being 23 years ago, the lowest scoring regular season game was a 62-57 win by Boston over Milwaukee in 1955 at Providence. The floor was on top of an ice rink and the moisture seeped through to make running almost impossible. The total of 119 is the low, and so are the 57 points.

Lowest scoring playoff game was Ft. Wayne 74, Syracuse 71, also in 1955, but at Indianapolis. The total, 145, and the Syracuse score are lows.

Buffalo scored 63 against Milwaukee in 1972 and the Bulls scored 65 at Phoenix in '75.

IF YOU REALLY like oddities, you should subscribe to the Cleveland, New Orleans and Philadelphia yearbooks.

The Jazz and Cavaliers, for example, keep tabs on their records against referees.

The 76ers go them one better. They record the season's fights. Last year there were 40 separate incidents of fistfights in the NBA. According to the 76ers, Artis Gilmore led the NBA in "incidents" with four, and all of them against different opponents, which proves his lack of bias. Kareem Abdul Jabbar was a close runner-up, with three. Kareem also was in the most unique fight. While all other players had other players listed as opponents, Jabbar, in one of his fights, opposed "Buffalo fans."

The Sixers even keep detailed stats on their dunking and tipoffs.

ONE OF THEIR most viable statistics, however, is their "plus-minus" charts. They determine a player's efficiency by crediting him with a point every time his team scores when he is on the floor, and charging him with a point every time the opposition scores. Besides their basic over-all chart, they have a chart with plus and minus figures in both wins and losses and another listing total plus and minus games each player had, in both regular season and in the playoffs.

As you might imagine, Julius Erving was at the top of every chart.

Left out an esoteric basketball stat. Know who holds the all-time major college record for combined average points and rebounds a game?

Give up? It's Elgin Baylor, who as a collegian established a "combination" record of 51.3, with 31.3 points and 20 rebounds a game.

THE GIANTS may have made a smart move in picking Mario Guerrero up out of the free agent pool on a relatively reasonable three-year contract. He's not the kind of player who is going to turn a team around (how many are?) but he should help to improve the Giants.

He's only 27, has five years of big league experience, and has a proven glove at shortstop (he tied a major league record for double plays in a game by a shortstop, 5, in 1973). He's also played a fair amount of second and some third, and was a good hitter in the American League for the past two seasons (.284 and .283) to have been used as a designated hitter.

The knock against him is that he lacks stamina and can't play effectively for long stretches without being sat out at last two or three games a week. However, he has gotten in hot streaks for periods of two and three weeks, especially with the bat, when he has been able to spark teams to winning streaks.

At least it's a positive move for the Giants and he stands as good back-up insurance for young Johnny Lemaster at shortstop and Bill Madlock at second.

A BASEBALL TRIVIA QUESTION: What player batted behind the two greatest home-run hitters of all-time?

Forget it. You'll never get Dave Johnson (now a utility man with the Phillies), who was on the same team (Atlanta) as Henry Aaron in 1974, when Hank broke Babe Ruth's career home-run record, and who then went to play in Japan and for two years hit behind Sadaharu Oh, who, of course, has broken Aaron's career homer title.

Johnson has a home-run distinction in his own right. In 1973 at Atlanta he hit 43 home runs, which is the all-time high for a second baseman.

FOOTBALL STAT: The 49ers' special teams took an awful beating this year, from both field opponents and the fans, so it should be mentioned that they weren't all bad. Paul Hofer was third in the NFL in yardage gained on kickoff returns.

LOCAL NOTES: Steve Lacy, former Terra Nova and USC lineman, has been named the Howard Harding Jones Memorial Foundation's Scholar-Athlete for 1977. Lacy had a 3.24 B-plus grade point average as a physical education major. Lacy received a $1,000 scholarship for post-graduate work and a plaque. Besides his advanced studies, Steve is coaching football and wrestling at Santa Monica High School.

Former Westmoor (Class of '76) star lady athlete Lisa Maurino, who captained her Ram softball, volleyball and basketball teams, is getting a lot of minutes and playing well this season for USF's girls' basketball team. She has the credentials. As a Westmoor basketball player she was named the outstanding senior athlete, was MVP, All-League, All-County and made the North-South All-Star team.

Boat Show Opens — on Fifth Try

By GARRY NIVER

Boat Show impresario Tom Rooney was fidgeting around thinking he'd forgotten something.

That was a good sign.

It seems when Rooney, Northern California's most prominent kangaroo rancher, thinks everything is going smoothly something inevitably goes wrong.

"One year I was convinced I thought of everything," said Rooney," who is starting his 31st year as head of the boat show.

"But actually I'd forgotten to have the champagne bottle scored (pre-cracked) for Admiral Nimitz' wife when she opened the show by breaking the bottle across the bow of the queen ship.

"She banged away at the hull and the bottle never did break, but it did manage to do $800 damage to the queen ship," noted Tom. "I learned a lot about champagne that year."

The 36th annual San Francisco Sports & Boat Show officially got underway for a ten-day run at the Daly City Cow Palace Friday when Mrs. Sally Wagner, wife of Coast Guard Admiral Austin Wagner, cracked the bottle of bubbly across the bow of ths 45-foot Latona. Unlike her predecessor, Ms. Wagner managed to break the bottle on her fifth try and the Latona suffered no damage.

For Rooney, Friday's opening of San Mateo County's largest exposition was the culmination of several weeks of 20-hour days.

"It doesn't do any good to go home to Sonoma," he pointed out. "Because as soon as I'm home I always remember something I've forgotten. So I sleep in my office in a chair until the show is underway."

This is the first year in the last 13 that Rooney hasn't greeted fans with a special gimmick boat built by his friend Bob Price in Santa Rosa.

"We had the plans drawn up for an Adidas Boat, which was shaped like a running shoe. But we decided at the last minute that the action of physical fitness would make a better display."

As a result, the front lobby — usually reserved for the gimmick boat — is filled with gymnastics equipment and agile gymnasts. Included among the groups who will provide continuous gymnastics entertainement during the run of the show is San Mateo Gymnastics, Inc.

Rooney, who starts lining up exhibitors in April for the following year's show, recently resigned as general manager of the Chicago Boat Show. "The San Francisco Sports & Boat Show now rivals both Chicago and New York in size," he pointed out.

"Actually, exhibitors enjoy this one better because it's the first one of the year and they seem to have better luck in peddling their goods here."

Those exhibitors are among the lucky ones who do have space in the sold-out show must come up with $1.75 per square foot for bulk space and a flat $300 per booth.

Rooney estimates that if a burgular could score on all of the merchandise enscounced on the Cow Palace grounds, he'd come away with between $8 and $9 million of worth of goods.

Of course he'd have to have an awfully big truck to haul it away because the show sprawls over the main floor of the Cow Palace and ten adjoining pavilions.

"I guess my favorite is Vacationland," said Rooney. "All of the folks over there are real country folks and are some of the most inventive and ingenious people I've ever met."

The rotund Rooney, whose physical dimensions are in direct contrast to the show's physical fitness theme, thinks that inclement weather will actually help the show's attendance.

"Several years ago it rained and we broke all records. Everybody is thrilled with the rain, especially the boat salesmen and the marina dealers."

Rooney, who is striking for a record 400,000 attendance for the 10-day show, was hurt last year by the Super Bowl.

"But this year the Raiders aren't in it," he noted. "And the National Football League decided it didn't want to take us on head-to-head and scheduled the game late Sunday afternoon."

This year's show features the usual array of boats — Glastron, Galaxie, Valco, etc. — and an overabundance of campers (four halls full).

Of special interest are the running hall, which features Nike, White Stag, New Balance, Adidas, Brooks and Head, and the archery range.

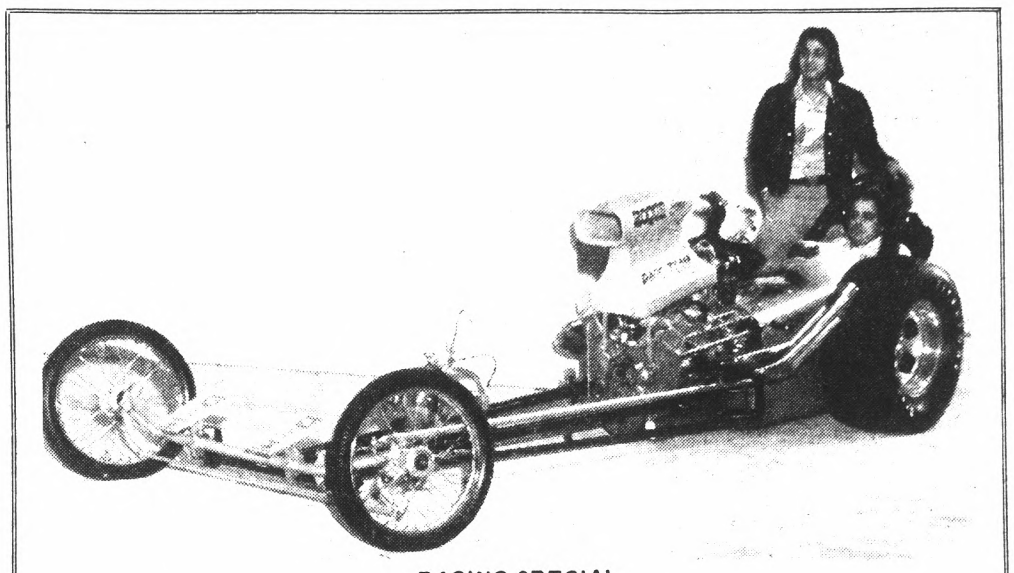
Vacationland features most of the counties in Northern California, with Mendocino County getting the vote for the most animated display. Other booths in Vacationland include Eldon Handy's White Water Float Exhibition (white water rafting in Idaho), Targhee Trophy Hunts from Jackson Hole, Wyoming and Trapper Peak Ranch, Montana.

Houseboating is headed by Lake Shasta's Holiday Harbor, and the houseboating prospect is good after a dismal season.

For a miniscule $26,900 you can have a home on wheels, featuring dual air and a microwave oven, with a master bedroom. The vehicle gets 3-6 miles per gallon and has a 65-gallon capacity tank.

The 1978 show features everything from snowmobiles to snorkels and canoes to cots; amphibious boats to zinc fish weights.

Show hours will run weekdays from 1-10:30 p.m., Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1 for children.



RACING SPECIAL

The Rogue Brothers Racing Team of South San Francisco will exhibit their Chevy dragster at the 30th Annual Grand National Roadster Show, Jan. 25-29, at the Oakland Coliseum. Bob Rogue is behind the wheel of the racing special, and brother Rick stands by. Another brother, Sal, makes up the team but couldn't make it.

NPL Basketball

Sub Sparks Ram Win

By CLAUDE HENRY

Troy Williams, subbing for the injured Sheldon Scott, scored 20 points Friday night as Westmoor High's basketball team took over sole possession of second place in the North Peninsula League by trouncing host Jefferson 59-37.

In other NPL contests center Ken Rhodes tossed in 31 points as El Camino knocked off visiting Oceana 58-52, Serramonte pounded visiting South San Francisco 98-77 and host Half Moon Bay defeated Terra Nova 57-48.

Westmoor-Jefferson

Ken Baptista's 14 first-half points sparked Westmoor to a 26-16 lead at intermission. Most of Baptista's points came on outside jumpers from the top of the key.

Williams, Westmoor's talented sophomore center, paced the Rams in the third quarter with nine points. Westmoor stretched its lead to 46-27 at the buzzer when forward Mark Navarro rebounded an air ball and followed it in.

Both teams cleared their benches in the fourth period as Westmoor coasted to its fourth victory in five outings.

Williams' 20 points was a career high for him. Baptista finished with 16 points. Forward Darryl Jackson led Jefferson with 11 points.

Oceana-El Camino

El Camino center Ken Rhodes is developing a fondness for the number 31. Rhodes scored 31 in Camino's previous win over South City, and reached that total again as the Colts held off scrappy Oceana.

Neither team shot particularly well in a run-and gun first quarter, but the hustling Sharks managed a 10-9 advantage, thanks to eight missed free throws by El Camino.

Oceana, paced by the scoring of junior guard Mark Page, took a 27-21 lead mid-way through the second quarter. But Rhodes, who had 16 points in the period, scored the last eight points of the half to lift Camino to a 29-27 lead at intermission.

Oceana led 43-42 after three periods but Camino scored the first four points of the final stanza and maintained that margin until Rhodes' field goal with 1:30 left. Camino then failed to score and Dwayne Curry's two-footer iced the win for the Colts.

Page led Oceana scorers with 21 points and Curry backed Rhodes' performance with 18.

Terra Nova-Half Moon Bay

Half Moon Bay got good inside play from center Dave Bradley and little-used forward Adrian Warren. The duo combined for 29 points plus a plethora of rebounds.

Playmaking guard Barry Short paced HMB's offensive attack with 20 points, including 12-for-15 from the free throw line.

Sophomore center Rich Belli led Terra Nova with 15 points and Joe Belli added 11.

South City - Serramonte

South City jumped out to a 12-10 lead against the undefeated Regents, but Serramonte scored the last 14 points of the first quarter to take a 24-12 lead.

Serramonte built its lead to 38-18 midway through the second period and then cleared its bench. SSF then outscored the Regents 16-5 to trail 43-34 at the half.

But Serramonte inserted its starting five to open the second half and scored 30 points in the third period to put the game away.

The only suspense in the fourth quarter was whether or not the Regents would reach 100.

Laron Franklin's 21 points led Serramonte's balanced attack as five players reached double figures. The Regents were also paced by Ricky Mixon with 20 and Conrad Simon with 18.

Center George Niualiku led SSF with 17 points and forward Leorman Wilson contributed 15.

The improving Sharks got eight points from soph forward Kathy Watkins and seven from senior center Zoie Willoughby.

Jefferson-Westmoor

Westmoor and Jefferson put on an offensive fireworks show in a 76-47 Ram victory.

Jeff freshman guard Karen Woods had a career-high 20 points while running mate Donna Arthur had 10. But Westmoor's racers, led by 18 points from Sue Murray, 16 from Donna Imsand and 15 from Verna Castro, were the difference in the game.

The Boating Season Is Beaconed

By JOHN CURRY

Rummaging through the mail coming to the desk, looking out at the rain and scanning the ads this month has pointed out the obvious: boating season is nearly upon us again.

Just as the Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade in New York City officially kicks off the Christmas shopping season, we have the annual Sports and Boat Show at the Cow Palace in Daly City acting as a beacon leading to the boat dealers and marine supply shops from here to Sacramento.

NEWS STORIES about reservoirs filling up and the drought ending are gladdening the hearts of small boat owners and fishermen lusting to drop their lines into something deeper than their boat keels.

It's beginning to appear, and surely no boat or equipment salesman or lakeside resort operator will deny it, that a normal rainfall and snowfall this winter will mean a normal season for water sports next summer.

For those of us who like to putt-putt around in boats that won't handle the wind and rough conditions of San Francisco Bay, the rain in fact means the end of what virtually has been a two-year hiatus from boating.

As far as fresh-water sailing or motorboating goes, San Mateo County's Captain Blighs live in a remote corner of the water world, miles from the ballyhooed lakes and reservoirs of the Mother Lode and Sierra regions and hours away from the Delta.

WITH LEXINGTON Reservoir near Los Gatos and Anderson Reservoir near Gilroy the nearest lakes, more suitable for hiking than boating last year, a lot of boats have been left home during vacations.

But now the ray of light has appeared. Lake Lagunita at Stanford University, dry for nearly three years, actually has some water in it now. There it was, right on page one of the Stanford Daily last week, a photo of three fraternity brothers paddling around in a canoe.

As news-gatherers, we're being assaulted from all sides by boating-oriented organizations putting their acts together for the season.

The United States Power Squadrons and the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary have listed their annual series of boating safety and small boat handling classes, mostly at night at local schools. Having been through the free nine-week Power Squadron course one night a week a few years ago, we can vouch for it as one of the most practical and worthwhile projects we ever undertook.

IF YOU haven't been to the Sports and Boat Show yet, you'll hear every reason ever offered for boating as a hobby — or camping, or hunting, or fishing, or just driving somewhere with a camper or trailer loaded with all your favorite recreational gear.

But it all depends, for boaters, on that liquid stuff settling into the low places in sufficient quantities. Doubtless the ugly brown and gray lake bottoms still will be visible around the edges. The water experts tell us that it could take two or three years of good hard rains to get the reservoirs, lakes, rivers and underground water tables back to what they were in 1974.

BUT WE'LL pay that no heed come the sunny weather. We'll exercise boat-lifting muscles atrophied from disuse. We'll practice car-topping our boats or backing up with trailers until we get it right again.

We'll fiddle around with our boat motors until we remember how to start them. The second trip to the water we'll remember also to put some gasoline into the outboard tank and to mix the outboard oil with it.

We'll buy new lifejackets at $8.95 per, for children who have outgrown the smaller ones, at $3.95 per, they had in 1974. We'll gag on cold, fresh air and get stomach butterflies over swells we used to ride out without a thought.

It'll be summer before we know it and we'll be off, with flotation cushions in one hand and icebox of low-cal beer in the other and car parked a quarter-mile away. Life has begun again.

Old San Bruno People, They Were Perfect

By BILL HURSCHMANN

San Francisco International Airport was a duck pond, Georgia Street a cow pasture. Belle Air Park was a marsh and residents walked dirt streets with lanterns in the absence of overhead lights.

President Theodore Roosevelt, just returning from a big-game hunt in Africa, barred Japanese from immigrating.

The Boy Scouts were founded, Oklahoma became our 46th state and Jack Johnson our first black heavyweight champion.

And people were friendly and helpful. Neighbors participated in the construction of your home, asking only that you remember them at the appropriate time.

"It isn't like that at all any more," says 89-year-old Harry Cook, who has lived in San Bruno since 1908. "Back then, everybody was in the same boat. Most of us had been burned out of San Francisco by the earthquake."

"There weren't any bad things about San Bruno then," recalls Harry's 80-year-old wife, Edith Schmidt Cook, who relocated to San Bruno from San Francisco in 1907. "Oh, there was the wind. Everything was open . . . there were no buildings . . . and the wind was very strong. But the people, they were perfect."

Harry and Edith played a special role in the formation of the City of San Bruno.

During the 1914 incorporation celebration, Harry and Edith were incorporation king and queen.

They weren't married then, however. In fact, they only began to date after the celebration itself in September of 1914. Their courtship lasted a year.

Harry knew Edith slightly when she was a student at Edgemont School. And, after she garnered some 4,000 votes (at 10 cents a vote) in the incorporation queen poll, she asked Harry to be her king.

"They wanted a really old man as king, but I said why not a young man . . . Harry Cook."

It wasn't a payoff for his votes, however, though Harry admits "I bought my share."

One assumes he cast them for Edith.

"It was the politicians who really paid out the money," says Harry. "They bought five and 10 dollars worth, but then they had to buy them for all the contestants."

As to why she chose Harry for her king, Edith says simply, "I knew he'd be the best man for the event, and he was after that."

The incorporation celebration, attended by perhaps 1,000 persons (although San Bruno's population at the time wasn't much more than 500, including children), was very peaceful and orderly, the couple recalls.

"And after the celebration, we had a nice dance at Green's Hall (on San Mateo Avenue), she says.

Harry and Edith, incidentally, favored San Bruno becoming a city.

Harry remembers one incident in particular during the incorporation celebration.

"When I was chosen king, I had to procure my own horse, although Edith was provided with a very beautiful costume.

"Well, I went down to San Mateo and rented a horse and saddle from a livery stable for the day — for $2.50. But when I got as far as Millbrae, I was so sore I had to get off the horse and walk him to San Bruno. I was glad the parade was short."

When they married, Edith moved into Harry's three-room home (later enlarged to five rooms) on Elm Avenue, which he had constructed for $500, including land. Land sales at that time, he says, were conducted on a basis of "$5 down and $5 when you catch me. If you were laid off work for a couple of days and couldn't come up with the $5, you'd just wait until next month."

The Cooks remained on Elm until 1927, when they moved to Linden Avenue. They left Linden for their present Georgia Street residence in 1943.

Harry, who was a printer in San Francisco until he retired in 1961, admits that when he and Edith first moved to San Bruno, the area was "regarded as a joke. People in Burlingame, San Mateo, Lomita Park, regarded themselves as a little higher class. But the people of San Bruno have shown everybody that we're not any less of a people."

There were several major factors which helped San Bruno in its growth, the Cooks believe. "Of course, there was the airport. It boosted San Bruno by 50 percent," says Harry. "And then the commercial investment at Tanforan Park."

And the electric rail car line, No. 40, "helped promote the entire Peninsula," he recalls. "That and the Southern Pacific were great.

"Why, for 15 cents you could ride the electric car from Fifth and Market in San Francisco to San Mateo. We may have a greater population now, but we don't have the service we had then."

After incorporation, Harry says, San Bruno began to progress. Sidewalks and electric lights and a police department and fire department "all came in due time." And, with the arrival of a regular fire department, Harry no longer volunteered his services.

"I can remember when we had two volunteer fire companies, and there was quite a rivalry going," he says. "We couldn't get any support from the county, so we had to do it ourselves. The problem was, the hand-drawn chemical engine was so heavy that we had to pull it up to the fire.

"By the time we got there, we were so tired that we had to rest. And watch the building burn down.

"But we always saved the land," he chuckles.

Of course, along with incorporation and inflation came rising taxes, something to which the Cooks have had trouble adjusting.

"When we came here, we paid $10 a year taxes before incorporation. Now it's $600 a year," he says.

Health is failing for both. Harry describes himself as "90 percent of what I was."

Charges Dropped in DC Robbery Case

Charges against a 20-year-old San Francisco man arrested in connection with two armed robberies have been dismissed in Northern Judicial District Municipal Court.

Another San Francisco man arrested in connection with the same incidents entered not guilty pleas Tuesday and a preliminary hearing was scheduled later this month.

David Jose Trinidad was arrested Dec. 20 by Daly City and San Francisco detectives and charged with receiving stolen property and possession of marijuana. Both charges were dismissed Tuesday.

Jonathan Lorenzana Osias, 20, also of San Francisco, pleaded not guilty Tuesday to a variety of charges, including robbery, possession of marijuana and driving a vehicle without consent. A preliminary hearing has been scheduled for 2 p.m. Jan. 24.

Osias is suspected of committing several burglaries in Daly City in early December.

Honors Retiring Chief

San Bruno Police Chief Russell Cunningham, retiring at the end of this month after 40 years with the department, was honored Tuesday at a Peninsula Hospital Community Health Center Luncheon.

Cunningham was instrumental in developing the center's law enforcement—mental health project.

The project coordinates the work of law enforcement and mental health professionals in Millbrae, San Bruno, Burlingame and Hillsborough.

Police suggestions through the center have led to development of a mobile crisis unit and a teen-age drop-in center.

Meetings on School Closures

Nearly 300 parents attended separate meetings this week at three schools to be closed next fall by the South San Francisco Unified School District.

Trustees and administrators met with parents to answer questions about the closure of the three elementary schools — Martin, 35 School St.; El Rancho, 753 Del Monte Drive; and Avalon, 375 Dorado Way.

Questions and concerns of those attending Wednesday night were similar to the concerns expressed during a board of trustees' public hearing the previous Thursday.

"Most everyone there listende and had some good questions to ask," said Valerie Lambertson, president of the board, who handled the discussion at El Rancho School.

El Rancho was the only school in which some angry parents appeared.

"There were a couple of parents there who weren't at all sure what was going to happen. They were unhappy about the decision to close the schools," she said. However, Mrs. Lambertson said she believes most of the parents were satisfied by the district's responses to their concerns.

"Almost all of the parents said they saw it coming," she added. "It's a hard decision to make, they told us, but they said they saw it coming."

During the Wednesday night sessions, trustees and administrators answered a variety of questions, including those on busing, provision for the disbursement of library books, whether visits to the schools to which students will be transferred are available, the continuation of special programs, whether traffic guards will be provided for intersections with heavy traffic and what will happen to the three vacant school buildings.

Each meeting lasted about 2½ hours. About 75 parents attended the meeting at Martin School, about 125 were at Avalon and about 80 at El Rancho.

"Most of the parents were satisfied with the answers," said Tom Gaffney, assistant superintendent for instruction. "They said they believe the district had taken the best step."

Declining student enrollment, a situation being faced by school districts throughout San Mateo County, forced the closures.

Martin School, in the eastern area of the city, experienced its peak enrollment in 1969-70, with 556 students. Today the enrollment is 330. Most of the Martin students will be assigned to Spruce and Hillside elementary schools.

Avalon, which had nearly 700 pupils three years ago, now has an enrollment of 553. In addition, the school needs major renovation.

Avalon students will be shifted to Ponderosa School, with students from the Westborough area being moved to Foxridge and Monte Verde Schools.

El Rancho, in the north central area of the city, had a student population of 681 in 1969-70. That has been reduced to 353 this year. About 90 percent of its students will be reassigned to Buri Buri School, which now has 10 usable classrooms. Some students will go to Serra Vista School next year.

It is estimated that the closure of the three elementary schools will save the district $225,000 per year.

The district experienced its peak over-all student enrollment in 1973-74, with 13,399 students. That is expected to dwindle to 8,590 students by 1982-83. Current enrollment is 11,933.

Samuel Chandler

What do you do with your leisure time? A recent Newsweek poll (Newsweek, Jan. 16, 1978) indicates that Americans use 46 percent of their leisure time watching TV.

Polls find many people are becoming more selective in their TV viewing and more worried about the effect of "the tube" upon children. This worry leads to many hot debates on the subject.

Such a debate finds Peggy Charren, founder and president of Action for Children's Television, and Kitty Broman, chairman of TV Board of Directors, National Association of Broadcasters, swinging at each other over the effects of TV ads aimed at children.

Such advertisements should be banned, says Mrs. Charren, because "They exploit America's most vulnerable population." Not so, says Mrs. Broman. "Children get a lot of great things from television, and advertising is one way that some of these marvelous programs are paid for."

To the question "Aren't children smart enough to know when a commercial is misleading?" Mrs. Charren says, "No, the young child — the two-to eight-year-old — mixes up the commercial message with a program's content. He cannot appreciate the commercial motives behind advertising or make discriminating choices."

Mrs. Broman writes "I absolutely disagree with that argument. Television is not teaching the child everything. If that were true, then the parent would have abdicated his responsibility to educate his own child." She adds that the final authority has to rest with the parent, not the television set. "There is a knob that turns on and off, and if you don't like the program, you can always flip to another — or turn the set off."

Mrs. Charron's reaction to the argument that restrictions on advertising will bring an end to television programs for children is "The airways in this country are public. Commercial television stations have promised that in return for using the air waves for profit they will serve the public interest." Mrs. Charron states, "If a station tried to stay on the air with no programming for the 2—11-year-old audience, we think an aroused public would see to it that that station would lose its license."

Mrs. Broman contends that critics never recognize the good that television does. "Have you ever had a child who wouldn't eat? I would suspect that there are some mothers who are very happy to have those sugared cereals. At least they get cereal into their children. And if you can get them to take that cereal — even though sugar coated — with orange juice and milk and banana, then I think you're well on the road to starting a child on a better-balanced meal that he would not eat otherwise."

So the debate goes on. Every facet of television broadcasting is a point of controversy. Yet Americans spend up to 18 hours a week watching the tube.

Good morning, good cooks.

This is just the right day to bake an easy all-in-one meal. Chicken and vegetables are good separately, when combined and baked with a onion soup sauce, they are super good. Just add a salad to complete the meal.

BAKED CHICKEN WITH VEGETABLES

- 1 frying chicken, cut up
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 2 cups coarse fresh bread crumbs
- ½ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon each, pepper, garlic salt, paprika
- ½ cup salad oil
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 4 small potatoes, pared
- 4 carrots
- 1 envelope dry onion soup mix
- 1 cup water

Combine the slightly beaten egg with the half cup milk. Mix the two cups bread crumbs, half cup flour and half teaspoon each pepper, garlic salt, and paprika. Dip the chicken pieces in milk and egg and then in bread crumbs. Heat the half cup salad oil in skillet, brown the chicken on all sides.

Place the chicken in shallow roasting pan; arrange the cup of chopped celery, four pared potatoes and carrots around the chicken. Stir the package onion soup in drippings in skillet, add the one cup water and mix thoroughly. Pour over the chicken and vegetables, cover with foil.

Bake in 350-degree oven about one hour, or until chicken is done and vegetables are tender. Serves 4 generously.

I said that all that was needed to complete this meal was a salad, and that is true, if your family doesn't expect dessert. If they expect dessert, and who doesn't? A pan of gingerbread, make from a mix, topped with applesauce and a dollop of whipped cream, would finish this meal off in fine fashion.

Jean Fassler: It Was the Pain

Former San Mateo County supervisor Jean Fassler testified Friday that the pain in her back, caused by accidents she said she sustained on the job, was so severe she was forced to retire at the end of her term in January 1977.

Mrs. Fassler, 58, appeared at a hearing of the County Retirement Board. She has filed a permanent disability claim, which if granted by the Board of Retirement would entitle her to $12,683 a year for life. Benefits would pass on to her husband if she dies before he does.

Mrs. Fassler was the final witness in the two-day hearing at the Hall of Justice in Redwood City. The board is scheduled to rule on her claim at its next meeting Feb. 16.

Under questioning by her attorney, Ernest Norback, Mrs. Fassler detailed several accidents she had while serving as a supervisor, including falling back on a defective chair at a supervisors' meeting and slipping on a freshly-waxed floor at the Hall of Justice.

She acknowledged that she first hurt her back as long ago as 1956, but she said she recovered and only had slight backaches from that year until she was elected to the board in 1965.

Asked by Norback why she did not state at her retirement announcement in Jan., 1976 that she was leaving the board for medical reasons, Mrs. Fassler replied she felt her condition was a private matter.

Records show that Mrs. Fassler stated, "Twelve years is sufficient for any public official to remain in one position."

Mrs. Fassler testified that two of her doctors have suggested surgery to ease the pain in her back, but she said she has refused because of the risks involved and the fact that the doctors cannot guarantee surgery would solve her back problem.

Thursday, Dr. Merrill Mansor, who had examined Mrs. Fassler, said surgery would likely help the pain.

For Retirement Board members to sustain Mrs. Fassler's claim they must determine that the former supervisor permanently disabled herself while performing her duties as a supervisor.

Last November, a Worker's Compensation Appeals Board administrative law judge awarded Mrs. Fassler $19,000 for back injuries she sustained on the job and for the cost of medical bills since her retirement.

Agency Still Without Insurance

Broadmoor's Police Commission still has not found liability insurance to operate the police district's independent department once again.

The commission continued its meeting this week until tonight at 7:30 in the hopes that an insurance proposal will surface by then.

The commission, which indicated during the November election campaign that it would have the department functioning by Jan. 1, has run into problems with finding insurance.

When a quotation was canceled in December, Commissioner Randy Wall said commission members would not discuss the matter publicly again until they had a firm proposal.

The commissioners said again Tuesday thay were "hoping" for success by tonight.

The temporary, six-month police service contract with Daly City expires Feb. 28.

Commission Chairman Wayne Johnson said that if the upcoming Tuesday meeting does not include discussion of a definite insurance proposal, he will begin talking about contracting again for police protection.

Johnson said the commission will consider negotiating with three police agencies — the San Mateo County Sheriff's Department, Daly City and Colma.

End to Police Suit Sought

Broadmoor's Police Commission states the lawsuit by seven Broadmoor residents against two former police commissioners should be terminated.

The commission decided this week to request that San Mateo County Deputy District Attorney George Camerlengo go before Superior Court Judge Melvin Cohn and ask that the suit be dropped.

The suit, filed last June against Commissioners Jack McCloskey and Dean Davenport, charged that the two commissioners acted illegally in attempting to sign a seven-year non-cancellable police service contract with Daly City.

The judge's injunction prohibited the signing of the controversial contract between the Broadmoor Police Protection District and Daly City.

The suit, originally filed against the Broadmoor commissioners and three Daly City councilmen, has not come to trial. The Daly City councilmen, as well as two Daly City residents who were litigants, later were dropped from the suit.

Discussion of the suit at a recent Broadmoor meeting excluded Commissioner Randy Wall, who was one of the litigants in the matter.

Wall was elected to the commission in November, in a vote that brought about the defeat of McCloskey and Davenport.

Commission Chairman Wayne Johnson indicated at the meeting that since the two men no longer are commissioners and the present commission does not favor a long-term, non-cancellable contract like the one in litigation, there is no reason for pursuing the matter further.

He said he believes the court should determine the fee payment to Camerlengo an to attorney Wayne McFadden, who has represented the litigants in the matter.

McFadden's bill reportedly ranges betwee $12,000 and $14,000, according to Johnson.

Johnson said he has "mixed emotions" about the district sharing in the cost of the litigants' fees, a possible action by the court. But he said he believes that the litigants should not have to bear the whole burden.

State Offers Deaf Information Access

Deaf and hearing-impaired persons throughout California now can get assistance with the complete range of state services.

A new state Information Center for the Deaf has been created by the Franchise Tax Board to give deaf persons access to the same service available to those who can hear, Executive Officer Martin Huff said.

Utilizing teletypewriter communication equipment, a specially trained operator will assist by answering questions about state service, Huff said.

The system has a typewriter keyboard for sending and receiving messages. This is connected to a regular telephone and questions are transmitted via telephone lines and recorded in printed form.

The number to call for assistance is (916) 355-0880. When calling, deaf persons should leave their name and phone number, including area code. The call will be returned promptly at the state's expense.

Service will be available Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Teletypewriter machines are available to deaf persons in a number of organizations, schools, public libraries and churches for those who do not own one.

Direct assistance or information about state income taxes, motor vehicle license and registration, public assistance, unemployment insurance, sales taxes, the job market and consumer problems can be obtained.
